GATHERING IN COMPLIMENT TO REV. DR. C. C. MEADOR.

Forty-Seventh Anniversary of His Pastorate Celebrated-Happy Addresses by Many Ministers.

Members of the Fifth Baptist Church & 61/2 and E streets southwest, and many Baptist ministers and laymen of other local churches gathered in the auditorium of the Fifth Church last evening to celebrate the forty-seventh anniversary of its organization and of the pastorate of Rev. C. C. Meador, D.D., and the forty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Sunday school. Dr. Meador ceased performing the regular duties of his office July 1, but since that time he has been given a salary of $1,200, having been chosen pastor emeritus. It was partly in further appreciation of his long and valuable services that the exercises were held last evening.

The program began at 8 p.m., and throughout was interspersed with music by the church choir. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. George Geren, pastor pro tem. Mr. S. M. Yeatman, who was the presiding officer, read an historical sketch of the church, following which Rev. Dr. Greene of Calvary Baptist Church, spoke in behalf of the Baptist Ministers' Association, bringing greetir is to the congregation and pas-

Rev Dr Muir of the Temple Baptist Church also brought greetings. Bittenger, formerly pastor of the Westminister Memorial Presbyterian Church on 7th street near E southwest, who has long been a personal frend of Dr. Meador, made a brief address, as did also Rev. William H. Nevins of Grace Bap-

Letters of congratulation were read from Rev. Dr. Butler of the Luther Place Memoriai, Rev. Dr. Pitzer of the Central Presbyterian, and Father Stafford of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, all of whom are out of the city. Dr. Meador responded briefly and feelingly to everything that was said of him and his church. He said the expected to spend the remainder of his life with the people with whom he had worked for nearly fifty

The New Pastor.

Rev. Dr. Weston Bruner, the recently elected pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, has presented his resignation to the congregation of the Calvary Baptist Church of Richmond, Va., and is expected to take charge of the active work here September 15. He will receive a salary that is smaller than he is getting from the Richmond con gregation, but this fact will not deter him from taking up the new duties. He believes the field for Christian work is better in the section of Washington in which the Fifth Church is located than it is in the place he is about to leave.

The people of the local church have never had Dr. Bruner preach for them, and are taking him entirely on his record, which is regarded as unusually good. Previous to taking up the Richmond charge he spent four years as pastor of the Lee Street Bap-tist Church of Baltimore, and had what is regarded as remarkable success there. He has been in Richmond a year and a half, in which time he has seen 120 additions to the membership of his church and a debt of $6,000 paid. He is a native of Kentucky and a, graduate of Georgetown College of that state, and also of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. He is about thirty-three years of age, and has especially distinguished himself as an evangelist. Last winter he preached for two weeks at the Temple Baptist Church of this city, and succeeded in adding a large number to the rolls.

A PASTOR HONORED MES. RUDDERFORTH'S ESTATE DORR MAY BE SUICIDE Decree Signed in Favor of the Complainants. Justice Gould, in Equity Court No. 1, has signed a final decree in favor of the complainants in the case of Thomas H. Rudderforth and others against Mattle R. Slater and John G. Slater, which involved the right to the title of premises 815 1st street northeast, and thereby terminated litigation, so far as the District Supreme Court is concerned, that has been in progress for several years. The complainants were Thomas H. Rudderforth, Frank W. Rudderforth, Daisy B. Palmer, Emma F. Thomas and Mary Grace Mullen. They set forth that by the will of one William Mockabee they were given a fee simple title in the premises mentioned, subject to a life estate of their mother, Emma T. Rudderforth. The latter took possession of the property at the time she was about eighteen years of age and occupied it as her home for about thirty years, when, May 28, 1898, it is charged, she was approached by John G. Slater, who informed her that he had bought the property at a tax sale and had title to it.

Continuing, the complainants informed the court that their mother, "relying upon the false and fraudulent representations made to her, and advantage being taken of her worried and distressed condition, her lack of information and her inexperience," decided to accept an offer of $200 for a conveyance of her interest in the property. When she went to execute the deed, it was alleged, she was required to take all her children with her to join in the transfer, on the ground that such was merely a formality. Mrs. Rudderforth, it was added, was paid $150, $50 being retained to pay "a judgment against her.' complainants contended that their signatures to the deed were obtained by misrepresentation, fraud and deceit, in that it was not revealed to them that they had rights and interests in the property, but were persuaded that they had no rights

The defendants, in their answers, denied the charges made by the complainants. Further, it was declared that the complainants all understood that they were selling their interests in the property because of their inability to clear up the title, pay taxes, and the like.

Justice Gould, in disposing of the matter, signed a decree declaring null and void the deed executed by the complainants and their mother, conveying title to the prop-The defendants are required to count for the rents received from the property since February 15, 1902, the date of Mrs. Rudderforth's death. They are to be reimbursed, however, for moneys expended Killed by His Own Train.

A fatal accident occurred last night about 10 o'clock on the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad near Deanwood, in which the victim was Frank Allman, a freight conductor. He fell upon the tracks while stepping from one car to another, and his body was horribly mangled. His right leg was cut off and his body was otherwise disfigured. Members of the crew of the victim's train missed him and went upon an investigating tour, which resulted in Brakeman James Rowe finding his mangled remains. The police were notified and the body was removed to the morgue. The deceased was fifty years old and had been in the employ of the railroad company for more than twenty years. He lived with his wife and child at 316 I street southwest. For several years he had been the conductor in charge of the night freight train between this city and Baltimore, and had about fin-ished his day's work when he met with the accident which ended his life. Coroner Nevitt made an investigation of the affair and gave a certificate of accidental death, Relatives took charge of the body today.

Reports relative to the case under consideration show that the building inspector March 4 and May 11 last notified the sister superior of the college to erect fire escapes on the buildings. The escapes have not been erected, it is stated, in response to these two separate notices to do so, and the officials feel that it is necessary to adopt strict measures in the matter. IDENTITY OF MANAWHO KILLED HIMSELF IN ST. LOUIS.

Formerly an Employe of T. T. Keane-Left Home Several Days Ago-Mother Heartbroken.

It is thought that the young man who committed suicide in St. Louis yesterday by shooting himself, as stated in yesterday's Star, was Aloysius Dorr, who for fifteen years was in the employ of T. T. Keane, the butcher. The general description of the dead man tallies with that of Dorr, who disappeared from his home on the Benning road early last Saturday morning. Dorr had talked of going to St. Louis. Detective McNamee, who is doing duty in St. Louis, telegraphed Capt. Boardman that he thought the dead man resembled Dorr. It was not until after this dispatch was received that the police knew Dorr had disappeared. A Star reporter called at the home of Mrs. Dorr this morning and gave her the information respecting the suicide of the young man. The mother was satisfied that the man who ended his life was her son.

"But," she sobbed, "I never thought he would do that. If Ally has killed himself I believe Mr. Keane's death had something to do with it. He thought the world of Mr. Keane and had worked for him since he was sixteen years old.

Climbed Out the Window. Aloysius Dorr was about thirty years old. Up to a few months ago he had worked for Mr. Keane in the Center market. Dorr's father died less than a year ago and Mr. Keane, who had almost been a father to him, died only a few days ago. Most of the people in market knew him as "Shorty" Dorr. After his father's death the young man looked out for the business in market for his mother. Since the death of Mr. Keane Dorr had been drinking to excess, it is stated, and early Saturday morning he went away without mother, sisters or brothers of his destination. He got up some time before day-break and left his room by climbing out the window to the porch and passing through the house. His room door was found locked. His mother said nothing to the police about her son's disappearance, as she thought he was drinking and would re-turn when he got sober. His revolver is missing from his room, and he also took what money he had:

Capt. Boardman sent for brothers of the missing man this morning and discussed their brother's disappearance with them. The message Capt. Boardman received from the St. Louis police was that the suicide smooth face and dark hair turning gray. He wore a gray sack coat and blue gray pants with a white stripe. The brothers of Dorr were satisfied that the deceased was their missing brother, and one of them will go to St. Louis tonight to identify the body. Should the body prove to be that of Dorr it will be brought here for interment.

One of Eight Sons.

Aloysius Dorr was one of the eight sons of the late Andrew Dorr, who was a butcher in the local markets for many years. As his mother said this morning, he looked upon Mr. Keane a most as a father and the latter's death had a depressing effect upon him. A photograph of the dead man will probably reach Capt. Boardman tomorrow morning.

OLD-FASHIONED BARBECUE.

Mr. Andrew Loeffler. About two thousand persons attended the second annual barbecue in honor of the Retail Grocers' Protective Association, given last evening on Andrew Loeffler's building and dormitory prior to the opening lawn, Brightwood avenue. The guests were all members of the association and their families and friends. The main feature was of course the roasting of the ox in the real old-fashioned way. The animal weighed 1,672 pounds net. The fire was started at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and from that time until 8:30 p.m. the beef was turned around on the huge iron spit over the flames, and pounds of salt and pepper were rubbed into the tempting carcass. Ten butchers were detailed to look after the carving.

The guests crowded about the stand, which extended around the end of the lot where the ox was being roasted. As fast as they received the big sandwiches they hasttened over to the beer counter, where five men were kept busy filling glasses. The lawn was prettily decorated with bunting and electric lights. A band of musicians rendered a pleasing program. Mr. and Mrs. Loeffler were presented with a set of silverware, including knives, forks and spoons, by P. B. Otterback, president of the Grocers' Protective Association, who said this was a token of the esteem in which the couple were held. Both Mr. and Mrs. Loeffler responded.

REPLACE CHIMES IN GROTTO. Petition Sent to Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate.

An effort is being made to have restored in the grotto in the Capitol grounds the water-drip chimes which were installed there several years ago, but were removed for some unknown reason by the Capitol authorities. A petition to have the chimes replaced was sent today to Col. Daniel Ransdell, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate. The petition is signed by J. E. Devine, A. E. F. Young and others.

The chimes, a novel musical arrangement, were originally placed in the catch basin under the fountain, or drinking pool, in the center of the picturesque and rustic grotto. The overflow of water from the grotto. The overflow of water from the basin fell upon the music board, which floated below, and produced soft, weird music. The aeolian-like sounds appeared o come from out of the earth, and this led to the belief among superstitious persons that the pretty place was haunted by ghosts, who inhabited a cavern beneath and were given to music and revelry at all was damaged by fire and sunk at the Alexandria ferry wharf by the water pumped into her by the fire engines on the night of July 4, was raised yesterday afternoon and is now affoat. A pile driver was used to raise the hull of the vessel above the level of the water, and a fire engine pumped her free of water in a short time. Investigation shows that the fire started in the kitchen of the boat, where there had been no fire for several days, and Capt. Fair as-serts that the fire was the work of an incendlary. The damage done by the flames will amount to about $1,000, and the tug
